

Version Control Page

Navigation bar
<File Name> Version History
Committed by: Person 3	Commit 5	Changes
Committed by: Person 1	Commit 4	Changes
Committed by: Person 2	Commit 3	Changes
Committed by: Person 3	Commit 2	Changes
Committed by: Person 1	Commit 1	Changes

Color Palette

Repository Page

Navigation bar

Repositories

Repository 1

Repository 2

Repository 3

Repository 4

Repository 5

Repository 6

Repository 7

Repository 8

Repository 9

Color Palette

Report

I struggled to pick the colors for the color palette, as I was picking colours, I found many colors I liked. What I had failed to look for was colours that look good together. As I was making the views, I noticed that the colours aren't very compatible with each other and made the page look awful. I made the best of the colours I had and only used 2 of the colours from the colour palette. I also noticed a lot of the shapes I used for the design are sharp, I was thinking of using round shapes similar to the buttons from the version history page. This to me seems for minimalistic and comforting which is something users are looking for per our user interviews. In the future I would change the colour palette and look for more compatible colours.